

SPECIAL NOTICE.

We take pleasure in announcing to the readers of the HERALD, and to our citizens in general, that Mr. Dana C. Pearson has been appointed Business Manager of our printing and publishing business, and thus becomes identified with Los Angeles and all her interests. Mr. P. was for a long time connected with the large Publishing house of J. H. Carmichael & Co. in San Francisco, as editor of The Daily West, Pacific Coast editor of Outlook's Western World. He was also correspondent of the Resources of California. He has traveled over nearly every part of this State, and is well fitted to carry out the objects of this Company.

A Direlict Official.

We are inclined to the opinion that the individual whose mission is traveling about the country and manufacturing funerals for the friends of deceased persons, is a myth, and has, in fact, no real existence. If such a character ever existed he has thrown up his commission, or like many Federal officers grown so rich and careless that he no longer attends to his business. There is, however, one more chance for him. He may be so constantly employed elsewhere that he has no time to visit California. Certain it is the fool-killer has not been in this State for a long time. If he had been in Los Angeles during the few days the bandit VASQUEZ was confined here, he would have reduced our population at least one-half. There never was such a shameful exhibition of hero-worship—hero-worship, where the hero was a coarse, cowardly murderer and the worshippers intelligent law abiding people. Now that it is all over, many of those who rushed to the jail and bowed in humble adoration before the red-handed villain, no doubt feel ashamed of themselves. But the mischief is done. A certain proportion of our Mexican population sympathize with VASQUEZ, and would aid him as far as consistent with their personal safety to escape. Further than this these Mexicans seeing the a oration bestowed upon the man whom they regard as greater and better than any American, are emulous to become as great as he. Many of them will follow in his footsteps until overtaken by a bullet or strangled by a rope. Well, VASQUEZ was taken from here to Salinas City. At San Francisco thousands flocked to see him; at other points along the route the same hero-worship tonfoolery was manifested. He was safely landed in the Monterey County Jail, and now we learn that the Americans and the Mexican population besiege the jail and beg for permission to take him by the hand. He is feasted on the best the market affords, and toasted as the hero of a hundred battles fought in his country's defense. All this is breeding trouble—sowing seed that will bring a harvest of rapine and murder. Hence we say that the fool-killer is not in this State, or if he is, he is neglecting his duty.

The Water Route.

The question of quick time between this city and San Francisco will become one of considerable importance at no distant day. Already our business men are asking if the time now occupied in making the trip cannot be considerably shortened. The answer to the question is simply Yes. The forty or forty-eight hours now consumed may be shortened to thirty, or even less. Boats may be built which will make the distance between Wilmington and San Francisco in less time than would be occupied by a train of cars running at the average rate of speed on the Western Pacific and going around by the Junction eight miles south of Stockton. It is claimed that the Truxton road will shorten the distance some thirty miles. If this is true, as we presume it is, the running time of a boat between Truxton and San Francisco may be brought within thirty hours. It cannot, however, be done with the boats now on the route. The company that will secure our travel must supply themselves with boats adapted to the wants of the people. These boats must be light-built, powerful runners. We do not want the dark, cooped up, deep, slow travelers now used. The new steamers must be open and airy, with plenty of room. Steamers of this class, offered with men who know how to treat the public, will secure all the travel now and retain a good share of it even after the railroad is completed. The Pacific Mail Steamship Company will be looking to its own interests by building a number of this class of boats immediately.

People who pay their way into a lecture room for the purpose of hissing the speaker should be kicked out and their demand for a return of the admission fee unheeded. Persons always have a general idea of what they are going to hear, and if they think they will not like it, they should not go. No one has a right to disturb those who do like what is being said, because they do not happen to admire the speaker or dissent from his sentiments.

A COMMITTEE appointed by the Connecticut Legislature have decided that drunkenness is a disease. The conclusion seems to be sustained by common sense, but if the Committee had pronounced the passion for drink a hereditary epidemic which prevails in some families and inoculates the world, they would have proven themselves possessed of the concentrated wisdom of all wise men.

Unredeemed Promises.

One of the most disagreeable features of the Administration is its disregard for its word. It has been profuse of promises, but barren of fruit. It has told us it would do much, but it has in reality done nothing—nothing that it should have done, and everything that it should not have done. We heard much about civil service reform, but we never saw the reform. Bad men were to be turned off and good men placed in their stead, but such men as RICHARDSON continue popular and hold leading positions. The national debt was to be reduced, but the ablest mathematician in the world cannot show the reduction. Taxes were to be made lighter. They are still galling. The honest conducting of the national department to develop itself there as of yore—see straw bids in the Postal Department. Charges against rings and corporations were to be honestly investigated; yet no investigation follows. Official defaulters were to be overhauled and made to disgorge their ill-gotten gains; yet they are all out of jail, and not a dollar has been recovered. Congress was to be made up of honest men; yet BEN BUTLER and A. A. SARGENT are its leaders and the Administration's advisers. The people remember these promises, and they cannot remember that any of them have been redeemed. It is these things that have brought the dominant party and the men it has placed in power into disrepute. The immense frauds which have recently been brought to light in the District of Columbia government management has worked untold harm to the Administration. Millions of dollars were actually stolen, and a large share of the money divided among the newspapers that boast of their position as Administration organs. The true men who constitute the honest portion of the Republican party are bending beneath the load of infamy that has been heaped upon them, and only await the proper time to call the unfaithful stewards to account.

A GREAT deal of money has been expended in attempting to stock the bays and rivers of California with the fine fish that abound in Eastern waters. As yet no satisfactory results have presented themselves. We have heard that young shad have been caught in the Sacramento river, but the fact has never been actually established. Up to this time we believe attempts to stock our rivers with Eastern fish have been confined to the San Joaquin and Sacramento rivers and their tributaries. We now suggest to Commissioner STONE that good results might follow experiments in the Los Angeles and Santa Ana rivers. These are clear, cool, mountain streams, and would grow the fish he is importing. It is true the water is taken from these rivers and used for irrigating purposes, but this is not done until it reaches the valley. In the hills and up in the mountains fish might breed undisturbed.

The harvest is almost here. The estimates of the crop may now be safely made, so far as this valley is concerned. From all points we hear only the most favorable reports. The barley and rye will yield crops equal to any ever before harvested in this part of the State. The wheat prospect is equally good. The corn, of which a larger area than at any previous season is planted, promises to meet the most sanguine expectations of the farmers. The vegetables of all kinds are fully up to the yield of the best seasons. The orange, lemon and lime groves indicate an unprecedented yield. Altogether, the people of Los Angeles Valley are in the midst of a very prosperous season, and the year will close leaving them in a much better condition, financially and in every other way, than at any time within the last decade.

ONE needs must go from home to hear the news. The San Jose Mercury announces that a severe sand storm, of two days duration, recently prevailed in Los Angeles Valley. As if sand was not enough, it tells us pebbles were floating about in the air. Why not mill stones and granite boulders? When one is telling a story why not make it as near like one of Baron MUNCHHAUSEN, as possible? No sand storm prevailed in this valley for two days, for ten minutes, nor at all. No pebbles darted through the air, and the Mercury's story is mere sound and fury, signifying nothing but a desire to say something mean about Los Angeles Valley. Such stories will not throw sand in the eyes of the people.

The Post continues to yelp and snarl and snap at the heels of San Francisco's rich men. The gentleman who runs the evening edition of the Chronicle is determined to work himself into a straight jacket in the effort. The rich men don't notice him much—in fact not at all—but he goes after them in season and out of season. They don't pay enough taxes; they don't do this, and they don't do that. They are never doing what he wishes, and never will, until they become silly enough to recognize in the editor of the Post a little great man, who once received a letter from JOHN STUART MILL.

Major Robt. Beck, Secretary of the State Agricultural Society, who is extensively engaged in packing wool in the Sacramento for the Eastern market, estimates that the wool clip of the State this year will amount to between 34,000,000 and 35,000,000 pounds. Last year it was 32,000,000. California now produces one-sixth of the wool produced in the United States.

It is conceded that the Civil Rights bill is dead. Grant will certainly veto it if passed. His purpose is, it is asserted, to make himself popular with the Southern people, in view of his election to the third term as President. It cannot, however, pass the House. Blaine has actively opposed its passage, because he does not wish to give Grant the show to veto it.

The Senate Judiciary Committee have agreed to report adversely on the Suto Tunnel amendments to the supplemental mining bill. No Investigation of the Contract and Finance Company.

NEW YORK, June 9.—The attempt to procure an investigation of the charges brought by Congressman Luttrell against the Central Pacific Railroad monopoly have resulted in a failure, although starting facts have been brought to the notice of the Committee, and it is not strange that the belief should have been extensively prevailed on the Pacific Coast that its members have been more potent than the Credit Mobilier shares. The Central Pacific Railroad, which is called the Contract and Finance Company, having been a more profitable concern than the other and having fewer members among whom to divide its gains. Under these circumstances, the men who have grabbed not only the Central Pacific Railroad but all railroads and enormous tracts of land in California, leave the tax payers of the whole country to pay the interest on their bonds. They could well afford to pay handsomely for favorable action by Congress.

The Civil Rights Bill Dead. WASHINGTON, March 9.—The Civil Rights bill is evidently dead for this year, Butler having withheld a report so late that there is scarcely a chance for favorable action.

Our friends, Nell and Percy, have been regaling the good people of San Luis Obispo with two dramatic entertainments, introducing Hamlet, Rory O'More, Othello and Vasquez. The papers of that burg speak very approvingly of the performances.

From that place they will probably go to San Francisco, and their further course is not yet made known.

The office of the Clarendon was turned completely "topy-turvey" yesterday, by the workmen who are repairing and reconstructing the place. When complete, it will have newly finished ceiling and walls, many more elegances necessary to a first-class hotel. As soon as the new building of Perry & Riley is completed, the Clarendon will have a complement of fifty rooms, and will then furnish super-extra accommodations to the traveling public.

A warrant was issued from Justice Gray's Court yesterday for the arrest of John Doe Burlingame, on a charge of stealing a horse, saddle and bridle, valued at thirty dollars, from William Johnson. The animal was hitched on one of the main streets, and while Johnson was attending to some business elsewhere, the wicked John Doe, with malice in his heart, mounted the aforesaid animal and rode off in the direction of the Monte. It would not be healthy for him to fall into the hands of the Monte boys—not if he wears a cravat, though he deserves to be hanged for his wickedness in stealing a thirty dollar horse.

The San Luis Obispo Tribune pays the following generous tribute to our District Judge. We will not disagree with our up-country friends on this subject: "Judge Sepulveda, who has been holding Court for Hon. Walter Murray, left us on yesterday for San Francisco. He has given universal satisfaction to the members of the bar, who speak very highly of his ability as a judge, and appreciate duly the promptitude and courteousness with which he dispatches business. His urbane and affable deportment has won for him the good will of all who have come in contact with him. We wish well to Judge Sepulveda, and hope that he will flourish, wherever his lot may be cast."

Complaint was entered before Justice Trafford yesterday, against John Keenan for beating his wife. It seems that he made use of a black-snake whip to chastise his better half in the morning, and after hearing that she had placed the affair in the Courts, he administered another drubbing to her. Finally he was arrested on two charges of the same kind as the first, and a third was subsequently made against him for threatening to take his wife's life. Justice Trafford tried the two former charges, and Keenan pleaded guilty to both. The sentence was reserved. The case against him for threats will come up to-day at 10 A. M. We wish some good missionaries could be sent to this country to spin the ropes to hang such men.

An interesting runaway and smash-up occurred on Main street about 8 o'clock last night. A team attached to a light spring wagon belonging to Campiello's stable, while standing in front of the ice-cream saloon near the Pico House, became frightened and dashed down the street at a break-neck pace. In front of the Lafayette Hotel the wagon struck another vehicle and capsized, and was thus dragged as far as the Court-house, coming in contact with a milk-wagon and various other craft, to their sorrow. The runaways were stopped, after tearing themselves from the wagon. The bill of damages runs up to the wagon, a total wreck, harness ditto, one horse slightly injured, several other vehicles smashed more or less, and one man badly bruised. It is fortunate that no lives were lost in the affair.

SHOT DEAD.

Cold-Blooded Murder of a Feeble Old Man—The Murderer Captured—Much Excitement Among the Spanish-Mexican Citizens.

About half-past 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon a fatal shooting affray occurred in front of the Palanconi House, on Olivera street, just north of the Plaza. The circumstances of the affair we have been unable to gather, as it seems that nobody save the two participants were present at the time. The victim of the shooting was Gabriel Mendiario, a man about fifty-four years of age, who was well known in this city. He was in poor health and in a feeble condition, hardly expected to live six months longer. He was known in the city as a quiet, inoffensive man.

THE PERPETRATOR.

The murderer is named Jaime Fernandez, a painter by trade, and has generally been considered a bad, quarrelsome character. Several rumors are afloat concerning the cause of the bloody deed, but none of them, of course, can be strictly relied upon. It is said that there was a family difficulty between the two, and Fernandez had been ill-treating some of the members of Mendiario's family. Some words occurred between the two, when Mendiario said: "Don't abuse them—abuse me." Upon this the other drew his revolver and fired, and Mendiario was shot near the heart, and expired in about ten minutes. After the deed was committed, Fernandez rushed down a narrow alley beyond the house and succeeded for the time in making his escape. A great excitement was created and men from all quarters rushed to the spot. The wounded man was carried into his house, and after a few moments expired without speaking a word.

THE SEARCH.

Officers Carpenter and Harris went in pursuit of the murderer, and after a few moments search, found him concealed in the rancho near Palanconi's wine cellar, only a few rods from the scene of his bloody work. It was feared at first that the man would be lynched by the excited people who crowded around, and doubtless he would have been had he not been hurried off by the officers and placed in the hands of the law. He retained his life by the merest chance.

AN AVENGER.

A son of the murdered man, a young man about twenty years of age, driven to frenzy by the terrible affair presented a revolver to Fernandez's breast, and was in the act of firing when the weapon was grasped and wrenched away by officers Thomas. The son fought like a madman to get free and take the life of his father's murderer, but was overpowered by the officers and taken in charge until the prisoner had been placed in a carriage and driven to the jail where he was put out of harm's way for the time.

Mendiario leaves a wife and three children—two daughters and a son—who are grown up. The family were driven almost to distraction by the terrible calamity which befell them.

PUBLIC INDIGNATION.

Much feeling was expressed by the Spanish-Mexican populace, as the murdered man was well known among them and highly esteemed. Coroner Richardson held an inquest on the body but elicited no further facts than those given. These demonstrations by lawless persons are becoming painfully frequent, and it is to be seriously hoped, that such an example will be made of the perpetrators that an effectual check may be placed upon them. If the authorities would hang one a day for a month or so we might hope for a material improvement in the law and order of the country.

Los Angeles Climate.

Voluntary Testimony of a Chicago Man who has just Returned Home after Spending More than a Year in our City.

He says: "I have slept four hundred nights in Los Angeles, and have not seen or heard a mosquito in my room. The covering every night on my bed has been, a sheet, a double blanket and a spread. In a few instances in Summer I have thrown off the spread on account of warmth, but in no case in Winter have I required extra covering. I think there has not been an evening during this entire time, when a fire was absolutely necessary for one's comfort, although many times it might contribute to the comfort of persons of the thin blood. I have worn my flannels, Summer and Winter alike, occasionally putting on my linen coat; the amount or kind of wearing apparel making but little difference in December or June."

The above speaks volumes for our climate. This gentleman is a man of high standing, of unimpeachable veracity, and such testimony as this is of inestimable value from such a source, showing up our climate so widely in contrast with that of the great north-west, where snows and winter storms prevail about half the year. During most of that inclement season in the States our husbandman is busily engaged in plowing and seeding—in putting in and cultivating his crops; our mechanics are employed in their outdoor as well as in-door employments; our herds are out upon the hills and in the fields covered with verdure, and our families are drinking in the fragrance of the rose, the geranium and the orange blossom.

We know how much to appreciate our lovely California climate, especially that of this favored region, and it rejoices us when Eastern intelligence comes in contact with, and is made to realize the pleasures, conveniences and benefits of our perpetual Summer climate.

School Examinations.

Examinations were conducted yesterday morning in Miss Ben's school, on Eighth street, and Miss Baker's on Spring street; in the afternoon in the departments of Mrs. Dubois and Miss Lucky, on Spring street. We visited the last two, and were very much pleased with their character throughout. Miss Lucky has under her charge the little ones, ranging from five to seven years old. We counted fifty-seven in the room yesterday, ranged along on their benches; and a fine sight they were, with their little Sunday-go-to-meeting attires and bright faces. Miss Lucky seems to have an excellent faculty of managing the small children, which is one of her other accomplishments in teaching. The little ones recited in the first lessons in reading and spelling, doing ample credit to themselves. There were also exercises in calisthenics, and many pretty songs and speeches from the beginners.

In Mrs. Dubois' school the children are of a little more advanced age and grade, these aspiring to the dignity of "baker" and such other hard words. Fifty-five were in attendance. The scholars showed excellent training, and were very apt in their recitations. With a general commendation, we will give a list of the exercises as they occurred. They were as follows: "The Ten Commandments," recited by Lizzie Morris.

"A Bird's Song," Ida Warren.

"Death," Carrie Mendelbes.

"The Little Dog," Henry Gerson.

"A Cheerful Heart," Lily Roberts.

"The Tiger of the Jungle," Mitchell Doaster.

"Who Made the Stars," Elvira Winston.

"Be Careful in Your Play," Willie Edgar.

"See, Oh See, the Shining Thing," Monroe Cohn.

"Lying Lips Bring Sorrow," Geo. Hunter.

"Little Star," Annie Rhein.

"Birds' Nest," Chris. Hargett.

Dialogue—"The Rook and the Lark," Jessie Yarnell and Lily Caystille.

"When it is Summer," Freddie Oliver.

"Chick-a-dee-dee," Florence Holmen.

"What is Life," Alfred Taft.

"My Mother," Mary Hargett.

"The April Chorus," Fric Brown.

"Two Little Birds," Charlotte Allen.

"May Morning," Mollie Dillar.

"Come Here, Little Robin," Louisa Waibel.

"The Barber," Jesse Yarnell.

"Do and Dare," Lizzie Spencer.

"A Fable for Little Ones," Lily Caystille.

From this department the scholars will be promoted to the lowest grade in the High School building. Mrs. Dubois has evinced fine talents as a teacher in the excellent training of the children in her charge.

The examinations to-day will be as follows:

Morning—Mr. Saxon's school, Bath street.

Afternoon—Miss Jewett's and Miss Scott's schools, High School building.

An Instance.

Judge D. F. Wilkin, a distinguished lawyer of Nashville, Tennessee, who has been sojourning in this city for two months past, left yesterday for Santa Barbara. He purposes making a tour through the State, visiting the Yosemite, Geysers and other places of note, thence perhaps vouching his way to his home in Tennessee. As soon as he can arrange his business, however, he hopes to return and take up his residence with us permanently. Last January the Judge came to our coast an invalid and physical wreck from dyspepsia and attendant disorders, and so reduced in strength that his friends had quite despaired of his recovery. He had previously spent some months in traveling about the country for his health, visiting New York and other localities without receiving any benefit. Upon arriving here, through the wonderful recuperating powers of this climate and timely judicious course of medicine and dieting prescribed by his physician, Dr. J. H. McKee, he commenced to recuperate at once. While staying with us his recovery has been constant and rapid; his weight increasing at the rate of one-half to three-quarters of a pound per day. Now he retires a hale and happy man, and says that he wishes with his family to spend the rest of his days in our beautiful valley. We note this case as one of the many which are constantly recurring. Those who view us from afar doubt the good reports which they hear concerning our wonderful country and climate. But here is an example which cannot be controverted; a man comes to Los Angeles with one foot in the grave and most, after trying in vain for relief East, West, North and South. In two months, he is completely restored, and goes away rejoicing to bring his family and make his home here for the remainder of his days. We hope to publish in a short time a communication from Judge Wilkin, embodying some of his personal observations in the country, and his idea of Los Angeles as a health resort. He furnishes the paper at our solicitation as a sort of thank-offering, to reciprocate in a measure the good to the country which the country has done for him.

Alleged Threats of the Monte Vigilantes.

F. V. C. Mondran, Secretary of Governor Pio Pico, last night brought to the Herald office the following letter, written in bad Spanish, and addressed to "Señor Don Pio Pico." It bears the postmark "Monte" stamped on the envelope. It is most probably the production of one man, and was written and forwarded without the knowledge of the citizens who captured El Gordo. The name "Monte Vigilantes" is new, and is the first intimation we have received that a Vigilance Committee exists in the county. It does not exist, except in the imagination of the author of the letter, of which the following is a translation: El MONTE, June 8, 1874. SR. DON PIO PICO: We have heard that you intend to spend your money and use your influence in order to punish the Vigilantes in behalf of the murderer "Gordo." If it be so, you have not the principles of a man and in morality you are worse than he was, because you ought to know better. El Gordo is not, nor shall he be the only one meriting such a condign punishment. It is necessary that you have your eyes wide open, because we are still ready to correct the atrocities that day after day are happening.

If, by chance, some one of the Vigilantes has a bad end by your hand or your influence or the friends of the late Jesus Romo, may God forgive you and the friends and relations of the dead man for the consequences.

Neither one nor two will pay the debt. As soon as we begin, God alone can see the end.

Those who have until now been your friends,

MONTE VIGILANTES.

Opera To-Night.

The benefit to Miss Anna Elzer which will be given by the Fabbri Troupe at Turn Verein Hall this evening promises to be a grand affair. Already a large number of reserved seats have been taken, and from present indications there will be a larger attendance than that at the first entertainment. A slight change in the programme has been made, and, instead of the English ballad "My Song," Madame Fabbri will supply by request, a German song entitled "Das Moegenfenster." The character of the entertainment promised is too well and favorably known to require words of commendation from us. It is an opportunity not often presented to our citizens, and we are glad that they fully appreciate it. Those who wish to secure seats should buy their tickets early in the day.

The Good Templars yesterday performed a meritorious deed in sending a sick and destitute man named Billings to his friends in Oregon.

PIPIFAX.

This remarkable curative herbal preparation is entirely unlike and greatly superior to any other recuperant ever discovered.

It strengthens the living vital nervous principle, and gives energy to the muscles, nerves, filaments, membranes, and all tissues of the internal organs.

PIPIFAX—Keeps the skin in a supple condition; the cuticle pliant; the pores open; and brings the blood to the surface; thereby enabling the system to counteract these baneful atmospheric influences.

PIPIFAX—Passes through the blood, carries off by perspiration and other excretions the effete and injurious materials of the body. It is soothing, alternative and defervative. Used methodically and rationally, aided by suitable diet, it produces most important changes in the system, contributing to the reconstruction of tissues, and removes vitiated matter which has become not only useless but injurious. No other article has ever been introduced which combines in such an extraordinary degree the principles of an efficient antibilious agent and tonic. Try it and be convinced.
